SOCIAL AND EPIDEMIOLOGICAL RESEARCH ON ALCOHOL

With support from

Centre for Addiction and Mental Health

National Institute on Drug Abuse

Aims

To promote social and epidemiological research on alcohol and drugs and foster a comparative understanding of alcohol and drug use and problems through:

- Publishing high quality peer-reviewed articles based on research from countries around the world
- Mentoring and other assistance to early career scientists and researchers in countries where there are few resources and little infrastructure and traditional support of research on alcohol and drugs
- Involvement in all aspects of the journal by early career researchers and researchers from less resourced countries
- Free online journal

Scope

- Quantitative and qualitative research
 - Scholarly commentaries
 - Case studies
 - Book reviews
- Research from countries where there is little current knowledge about substance use
 - Cross-national comparisons
- Special issues from thematic meetings and conferences
 - Global implications
